Improving Margins, Competitiveness & Energy Efficiency in a Volatile Oil Market

Asian refining scene is under pressure with new capacities coming on-stream, not only in Asia but the Middle East as well. However, analysts are suggesting Asia could become the nerve center for the oil & gas industry, as expansions and capacity additions coupled with lower crude price is dramatically pivoting the balance of the refining industry further into Asia. With changes and challenges, how can Asia's refining sector strategize to be profitable and efficient?

CMT's Refining Outlook Asia will be held in conjunction with 22nd Asia Petrochemical Summit with a plenary session focused on both Refinery & Petrochemical markets.

Key Sessions:

- Flexible crude refining & improving margin per barrel
- Supply/demand outlook for refined products: LPG, Naphtha, Distillates, Lubricants
- Value addition to the bottom of the barrel
- Middle East and impact on Asian refiners: How will refining balance shift East of Suez?
- Managing turnarounds/shutdowns and opportunities for refiners and downstream value chain
- Strategies to improve competitiveness in the oil and gas sector
- Improving fuel quality and energy efficiency with latest innovations in technology
