2nd Sustainable Feedstocks for the future of Chemicals & Plastics

23-24 MAY 2024 / ANTWERP, BELGIUM

Reducing greenhouse gases is critical for chemical companies to stay competitive & journey towards net-zero. Responding to climate change targets, legislation is shifting towards more stringent carbon reduction regulations to promote industry decarbonization. A transition away from fossil-based feedstocks, investing in sustainable feedstock sources and conversion technologies are key to accelerate the transformation! Sustainable feedstocks from biomass, biowaste, algae, waste plastics, Lignin, carbon capture & many more out there can be explored. However, accessing these resources economically remain a challenge.

Join us in Antwerp, Belgium on 23-24 May 2024 at the 2nd Sustainable Feedstocks for the Future of Chemicals & Plastics conference to learn more about the opportunities and action plans, project scale up, supply chain issues & technology innovations to drive the industry forward!

Highlights:

- Sustainable Feedstocks sources, economics & supply chain challenges
- Innovative technologies & cost competitiveness transitioning to sustainable feedstocks
- Draft SBTi standard for the chemical industry
- Carbon pricing, CBAM implementation & the impact on chemicals industry
- Dynamics of waste management & the challenges as feedstocks for chemicals recycling
- End-User's perspective on premiums for raw materials & green claims

This event will have some combined sessions with the Decarbonizing the Chemicals Industry conference on 23-24 May 2024 in Antwerp, Belgium!
