

As we look forward to the next “in-person” LPGtrade Summit in 2022, this 3-hours agenda “Global LPG Markets into 2022” aims to bring the global LPG trade stakeholders together virtually, as we pave our way into a brand new year.

Take this opportunity to refresh on the current market fundamentals on global demand/supply market dynamics, updates and what to anticipated in key markets (e.g. China and India).

Join us on 1Dec and unfold the answer to the following too!

- How fast the US will be able to increase its production & how much of this increase will make it to the water?
- How much additional production & exports the market should anticipate from the Middle East as a result of the OPEC+ & local geopolitical decisions?
- What other changes are expected in the global LPG seaborne supply?
- Petrochemical demand capacity is growing rapidly; is there enough LPG available to support this growth? What will be the implication of a forthcoming short year?
- Retail demand is dependent on winter weather; is the market ready for a cold spell & what could be the results?
- Overview of the seaborne petrochemical markets & how their economics can be affected by the supply/demand dynamics in 2022
- Will petrochemical markets be the balancing mechanism for the LPG markets in 2022?
- How the VLGC supply/demand balance affect the freight rates in 2022?
- Will LPG prices rationalize in/after Q1-2022, or the year will remain tight throughout? What is the expectation for the major market arbs?
